

2018 Library Services Seed Challenge Grant
Southern Adirondack Library System
Deadline: December 29, 2017

The SALS Board of Trustees recognizes libraries must keep pace with progress. To remain relevant, libraries in the SALS service area must evaluate ways to strengthen current library services, incorporate new ideas and provide services to people who live in, work in or visit their community.

The SALS Board of Trustees has initiated a competitive grant program to help member libraries either provide new services or expand existing services in order to respond to modern challenges and shifts in community priorities.

SALS will offer Library Services Seed Challenge Grants ranging from $1,000 up to $10,000 per project. Libraries may work together to develop a larger project at a higher funding level.

Library staff and boards should examine current services, community needs, library space (physical and virtual), staff skill sets, collections and current and potential community partnerships.

Grant funding can only be used once for this project. If the program is successful, every effort should be made to incorporate the service into future library budgets.

- Grant funds may be used to purchase equipment or materials, fund programs or presenters, or hire outside consultants or teachers.
- The funds cannot be used to pay for library staff.
- The proposed project must be new to the library. The project can be a new component of an existing program. For instance, the program can supplement the Summer Reading Program or other programs currently provided by the library.
- The proposed project must contain a community partnership component. The partner may be a school, museum, community group, agency, business or other relevant local organization. A partner, for example, may provide materials, personal expertise or advocacy.
- A letter of commitment from each community partner must accompany the application.
- The program must fit into the library's Long Range Plan of Service.
- A final report is required and will be due Friday, December 14, 2018. A progress report is also required. The goal and objectives identified in the project application must be referenced in these reports.

CHALLENGE QUESTIONS, THINGS TO CONSIDER:

- How will your library provide a platform for learning, conversation and collaboration?
- How will your library assist its community members in accessing information?
- What is your library's role in providing information about your community and other organizations contained within?
- Who within your community do you hope to reach through the new program? How will you use your grant for outreach?
- How will you provide continuing education for the public and staff using new technologies to access and disseminate information?
