Q2

What are the goals and objectives of your project?

The 'TEEN CENTER' design project within the Horicon Free Public Library is to accommodate the teen patronage. The appeal of our Young Adult collection has prompted the Board to designate and design an exclusive 'TEEN CENTER' area.

Q3

How will this project change the library building?

The proposed redesign will only occur inside the library requiring no changes to the physical aspects of the building.

Q4

How will this project benefit your patrons?

Many of the teens in the area have grown up in this library. We would like to demonstrate that we are growing with them by changing the library to allow for their changing interests.

Q5

What is the timeline for the project?

We plan to begin in September 2025. Project completion is estimated to be within four months

Q6

EVALUATION: What tools will you use to evaluate the program quantitatively (i.e. statistics)? What tools will you use to measure the program's success qualitatively?

The Library Director will collect statistics on the use of the new 'TEEN CENTER.' All patrons between the ages of thirteen and seventeen utilizing the area will be counted.

WALK-THROUGH NARRATIVE

The Library Director discussed the increase in the numbers of teens that have shown interest in the library and the teen collection the Director is developing. An increase in teen patronage was evident.

We realized if we relocated the patron computers, we could use that available space to design and implement an exclusive 'TEEN CENTER.' We discussed the need for an interior designer to help us make this a welcoming space for them.

The second walk through was with two members of the Horicon Free Public Library Board of Trustees, Vice President, Joyce Greenidge and Secretary, Sara Mullins. We reviewed the space with Interior Designer, Judy Price. Ms. Price reviewed the design concept and contributed helpful suggestions for better utilization of the area.
